Front-End Developer
Job Title: Front-End Developer

IBT Media, a global business media company operating out of New York City with digital news properties in 20 countries is looking for a talented front-end developer to join our development team in a remote work setting. As a front-end developer, you will have opportunity to work across the portfolio of properties including ibtimes.com (multiple editions), Medicaldaily.com, Latintimes.com, and Player.one.

Requirements: We are looking for a persistent and ambitious profile to become our new Frontend Developer. Besides the formal requirements, we are seeking for someone who is dedicated, detail-oriented and highly technical.

- Familiarity with softwares like Adobe Suite, Photoshop and content management systems + understanding of layout aesthetics
- In-depth understanding of the entire web development process (design, development and deployment)
- Working knowledge of English language

We can offer you:

- A steep learning curve and an opportunity to develop your skill set in an international company
- A key role in developing new job features that will drive business growth
- Dynamic atmosphere in a young, talented and motivated team environment

About IBT IBT Media is a fast growing global digital news organization, delivering news and insight to over 20 million monthly readers across the world. With innovations across the newsroom and the platform, we are engaging a new generation of readers with content that speaks to their interests, analysis that serve their businesses, and insight to make sense of a globally connected world.
